

West Coast Research Symposium on Technology Entrepreneurship

Stanford University
September 12 and 13, 2019 | Stanford, CA

WCRS 2019

Day 1: Thursday, September 12 | Paul Brest Hall

8:00–8:30 AM | Breakfast

8:30–9:00 AM | Welcome and Program Introduction

Kathy Eisenhardt and Tina Seelig, Stanford Technology Ventures Program

9:00–10:30 AM | Platforms 2.0: Competition, Disintermediation, and Entrepreneurial Agency

Trust and Disintermediation: Evidence from an Online Freelance Marketplace

Grace Gu and Feng Zhu, Harvard University

Platform Competition and Cross-Platform Migration: Why Do App Developers Move from Apple to Google?

Yongzhi Wang, The Ohio State University; Lori Yue, University of Southern California; Nandini Rajagopalan, University of Southern California

What's in a Name? Categorical and Idiosyncratic Identity of New Organizations in Nascent Markets

Jamie Song and Jason Davis, INSEAD

10:30–11:00 AM | Coffee Break

11:00 AM–12:30 PM | Resource Acquisition and Platforms

The Paradox of Platform-Based Entrepreneurship: Competing While Sharing Platform Resources

Kevin Boudreau, Northeastern University & NBER; Milan Miric, University of Southern California; Lars Jeppesen, Copenhagen Business School

Leveraging Institutional Intermediaries: Entrepreneurial Strategies to Contact Investors on a Fundraising Platform

Willow Wu, Stanford University; Song Wang, Zhejiang University; Charles Eesley, Stanford University

Community-Based Resource Mobilization: How Entrepreneurs Acquire Resources from Distributed Non-Professionals via Crowdfunding

Alex Murray, University of Oregon; Suresh Kotha, University of Washington; Greg Fisher, Indiana University

12:30–1:45 PM | Lunch

Applied Ethics and Entrepreneurship Education: Randy Komisar, Kleiner Perkins, and Aileen Lee, Cowboy Ventures
in conversation with Tom Byers, Stanford University

1:45–3:15 PM | Entrepreneurial Vision, Technology, and Incumbents

Back to the Future: Technology Reemergence through the Lens of Music Synthesizers

Andrew Nelson, University of Oregon; Callen Anthony, New York University; Mary Tripsas, Boston College

Field-Level Paradoxes and the Evolution of an Entrepreneurial Vision

Ryan Raffaelli, Harvard Business School; Richard Dejordy, California State University at Fresno

Forced Ecosystems and Digital Stepchildren: The Rise of Social Media Advertising and Barriers to Market Transformation

Pinar Ozcan, Warwick Business School; Douglas Hannah, University of Texas at Austin

3:15–3:30 PM | Coffee Break

3:30–5:30 PM | Entrepreneurship in Academic and Non-Academic Settings

Spinning an Entrepreneurial Career: Uncovering Motivational Pathways to Venture Success and Serial Entrepreneurship

Sonali K. Shah and Hyeonsuh Lee, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Rajshree Agarwal, University of Maryland

Different Founders, Different Firms: A Comparative Analysis of Academic and Non-Academic Startups

Maria Roche, Georgia Institute of Technology; Annamaria Conti, University of Lausanne; Frank Rothaermel, Georgia Institute of Technology

The Entrepreneurial Commercialization of Academic Science: Evidence from "Twin" Discoveries

Matt Marx, Boston University; David Hsu, Wharton

The Illegitimacy Premium

Olenka Kacperczyk, London Business School; Peter Younkin, University of Oregon

5:45–8:00 PM | Dinner at Stanford Faculty Club

WCRS 2019

Day 2: Friday, September 13 | Paul Brest Hall

8:00–8:30 AM | Breakfast

8:30–10:00 AM | Environmental Impact on Entrepreneurship: The Public Sector

Shaping Nascent Industries: Innovation Strategy and Regulatory Uncertainty in Personal Genomics

Cheng Gao, University of Michigan; Rory McDonald, Harvard Business School

The Economic Returns from Federal R&D Investment in Small Business: Evidence from the SBIR/STTR Program, 2000–2015

Lauren Lanahan, University of Oregon; Amol M. Joshi, Oregon State University; Evan Johnson, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

How Revolutions Shape (or Rather Blur) Markets: Initial Insights from the Arab Spring

Daniel Armanios, Carnegie Mellon University; Amr Adly, American University of Cairo

10:00–10:30 AM | Coffee Break

10:30 AM–12:00 PM | Venture Accelerators

Institutional Change and Early-Stage Startup Selection: Evidence from Applicants to Venture Accelerators

Valentina Assenova, Wharton

What Kind of Village Fosters Entrepreneurial New Venture Development?

Rebecca Karp and Siobhan O'Mahony, Boston University

Marketplace Platforms in the Presence of Social Networks: The Impact of Accelerators on Venture Investment Syndicate Formation

Benjamin Hallen, University of Washington; Susan Cohen, University of Georgia

12:00–1:00 PM | Lunch

The Lean Startup and Beyond: Steve Blank, Stanford University in conversation with Riitta Katila, Stanford University

1:00–2:30 PM | Evolving Markets: Technology, Firm Identity, and Market Dynamics

Agency in the Confusion: Google and the Rise of the Online Advertising Market

Andrew Hargadon, University of California Davis

Representations, Competencies, and Identity: How Incumbent Innovation Teams Use Product and Process Representations When Market Logics Shift

Giacomo Cattaneo, Aarhus University; Victor Seidel, Babson College

To Understand How Technology Impacts Market Creation, Strategy Needs a Theory of Technology: Here It Is

Brent Goldfarb and David A. Kirsch, University of Maryland

2:30–2:45 PM | Coffee Break

2:45–4:15 PM | Structuring the Entrepreneurial Organization: From Today to Tomorrow

Fostering a Positive CEO–Board Relationship in New Ventures

Sam Garg, Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Structuring to Sell Ideas: The Role of Organization Design in the Commercialization of Inventions

John Eklund, University of Southern California

AI and Humans in the Labor Market? Lessons from Chess

Florenta Teodoridis, Milan Miric, and Jinhong Lu, University of Southern California

4:15–4:30 PM | Program Wrap-Up

4:30–5:30 PM | Cocktail Hour at Treehouse (optional)

WCRS 2019

Authors and Guest Speakers in Attendance

Rajshree Agarwal University of Maryland	Andrew Hargadon University of California Davis	Siobhan O'Mahony Boston University
Daniel Armanios Carnegie Mellon University	David Hsu Wharton	Pinar Ozcan Warwick Business School
Valentina Assenova Wharton	Amol M. Joshi Oregon State University	Ryan Raffaelli Harvard Business School
Steve Blank Stanford University	Olenka Kacperczyk London Business School	Nandini Rajagopalan University of Southern California
Kevin Boudreau Northeastern University	Rebecca Karp Boston University	Maria Roche Georgia Institute of Technology
Tom Byers Stanford University	Riitta Katila Stanford University	Frank Rothaermel Georgia Institute of Technology
Susan Cohen University of Georgia	David A. Kirsch University of Maryland	Victor Seidel Babson College
Jason Davis INSEAD	Randy Komisar Kleiner Perkins	Sonali K. Shah University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign
Richard DeJordy California State University at Fresno	Suresh Kotha University of Washington	Jamie Song INSEAD
Charles Eesley Stanford University	Lauren Lanahan University of Oregon	Florenta Teodoridis University of Southern California
John Eklund University of Southern California	Aileen Lee Cowboy Ventures	Mary Tripsas Boston College
Cheng Gao University of Michigan	Jinhong Lu University of Southern California	Yongzhi Wang The Ohio State University
Sam Garg HKUST	Rory McDonald Harvard Business School	You (Willow) Wu Stanford University
Grace Gu Harvard University	Milan Miric University of Southern California	Peter Younkin University of Oregon
Benjamin Hallen University of Washington	Alex Murray University of Oregon	Feng Zhu Harvard University
Douglas Hannah University of Texas at Austin	Andrew Nelson University of Oregon

About the Stanford Technology Ventures Program (STVP), Stanford University

The Stanford Technology Ventures Program is the entrepreneurship center in Stanford Engineering. Housed within the Management Science & Engineering Department, we deliver courses and offer extracurricular programs to the Stanford community. Our faculty create scholarly research on high-impact tech ventures that informs our growing collection of online educational resources for educators, entrepreneurs, and organizations around the world on Stanford eCorner.